JUDGE BROYLES EXPLAINS WHY HE FINED WOMAN

Miss Austin Took Law Into Her Own Hands and Broke It, Says Recorder

The Journal: There seems to be some misapprehension about the case of the young woman who was fined the other day for leading a white chauffeur with her umbrella on the public streets of the city.

This case was written up in sensational style as that of a woman being fined for "leading a white chauffeur." Whereas, it was a very different case. The evidence showed that a white chauffeur, driving a taxicab for a living, and located near the corner of Luckie and Broad streets had followed out to Miss Austin as she walked by his place of business. "Taxi cab, taxi, wait a taxi," Miss Austin testified that for several times she called out to him and he came to the curb. She then passed his place of business, but that he had not moved. She then called out to him again and he came to the curb. On this occasion as soon as he spoke to her she told him with her umbrella, striking him over the head several times, and causing a large crowd to gather on the scene.

It is thought it very doubtful if the chauffeur intended any familiarity with the young woman, but it is a small amount for annoying her by so persistently calling out to her "Taxi cab, taxi, wait a taxi," whenever she passed by.

I find the young woman was fined $25.00 for taking the law into her own hands and breaking it, and for leading a white chauffeur in an unnecessary disturbance and excitement on the public streets.

Georgia and Auburn Battle for Southern Championship Today

Greatest Game In History of Atlanta Today

Georgia and Auburn Battle at Ponce de Leon for the Undisputed Title of Football Champions of the Southern Intercollegiate Athletic Association

Southern football will fight its last big battle today at Ponce de Leon, when the cohorts of the Red and Black, do battle with the boys from Alabama for the undisputed championship of the south.

The Georgia team has not been defeated this season except by the University of Virginia, which does not play under the southern conference. Auburn has not had her goal line crossed but one time this season and that was by Vanderbilt. Therefore the two teams will go on the field to fight for the undisputed claim as king of southern football. Georgia is in good shape for the fray as is Auburn. To all practical purposes there are no men injured on either side that cannot be replaced by other players just as good.

McWhorter, considered the king of southern halfbacks, will lead the Red and Black. This is a fitting climax for a career that has been as illustrious as that of McWhorter. He has been the life of the Georgia team ever since he started playing there four years ago. Today, in the last game that he will ever play, he leads his men for a championship.

Kirk Newell, one of the best broken field runners that ever put on a suit in the south, will lead the Auburn team, a fact and a better man could not be found. He is fast, and has a wealth of knowledge of the game that will come in mighty handy this afternoon.

Each school has won the championship honors once. Auburn in 1909 and Georgia in 1910. Therefore this afternoon will mark the first time that something of equal importance will be decided on the field of Ponce de Leon.

Alabama Works For Big Game

Face Miss. Aggies Next Thursday-H. Vandergraaf, Star Back, Seriously Injured

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) UNIVERSITY, Ala., Nov. 22.—With the football season in the mire and yellow leaf and the final game of 1913 only a few days away, Coach Graves is working hard with the Crimson variety to put it in shape to bring home the scalp of Mississippi Agricultural and Mechanical when it returns from Birmingham next Thursday night. Though Alabama hopes to win this last game, the fight is going to be a hard one, as every one here realizes, and Graves is working his men every afternoon as long as he can to get them ready.

What makes the chances of the Crimson so slim is the fact that the team has been injured by the loss of its star back, H. Vandergraaf, who has been one of the mainstays on both offense and defense all season, will hardly be able to get into the game. In the latter stages of the Tennessee game the Alabama captain had one of his ears almost torn from his head, and what made the injury all the more serious was the fact that the torn artery had previously been damaged. The attending physician says that the player will be unable to enter the fray, but Captain Graves is confident that the team is going to be there. The coaches, however, are not counting on him.

The absence of Vandergraaf from the line-up puts before Coach Graves the serious problem of getting a replacement. He has had to turn to the reserves, and so, in an effort to solve the problem, he has sent Paul Ball to Long to left half and put Morgan Stickney at fullback. The team is in good shape, at full. In signal drill the combination has been working pretty well, but just how it will turn out in an actual game remains to be seen.

HERE ARE BIG FOUR OF EAST AND WEST

The football season, so far as the "big league" colleges are concerned, closes with the games today.

In the east the paramount struggle is between Yale and Harvard for the championship of the east. The game will be played at Cambridge and the ticket sale shows in advance that the attendance will be close around 30,000. Probably the largest audience that ever witnessed a college game.

Statistics on All-Emory "11"

BY GRANSTON WILLIAMS.
EMORY COLLEGE, Oxford, Ga., Nov. 22.—Statistics on the All-Emory football team, which was selected this week by the four coaches of the league, reveal the fact that it would prove a strong crew. The team is composed of 11 players, of whom 10 are from the college of the state and south. The regulars on the select team average 172 pounds, while the three substitutes average 135 pounds in weight.

The team is by no means slow as some of its members are good on the track on short sprints and long runs. Nothing but conjecture is in order, when the thought comes in the mind of the best ever witnessed on the field. The regulars on the select team average 172 pounds, while the three substitutes average 135 pounds in weight.

The team is by no means slow as some of its members are good on the track on short sprints and long runs. Nothing but conjecture is in order, when the thought comes in the mind of the best ever witnessed on the field. Sewanee Ready Bulldogs Play For Vanderbilt

Tigers Worked Hard for Turkey Day Battle and Are on Edge to Lick Vandy

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) SEWANEE, Tenn., Nov. 22.—The Sewanee squad closed their last week of practice yesterday with one of the hardest battles of the year against the scrubs. Coach Julius had had the reserves in hand for several days, giving them new plays to try on the narrow defense in order to see what they could do with the Vanderbilt style of play, which is very different from the style employed by Oglethorpe.

The last week before Thanksgiving has become proverbial as being the best period for all to get into the team and it has held true this year as never before. The players have been called out to practice an hour earlier than usual every evening and have been kept at it until long after dark.

It is rumored that Vanderbilt is planning to tire out the Tigers in the first two quarters and then put in their later work with them off their feet. This will not be found to be a very wise undertaking. If there is one thing a Sewanee player does know it is endurance, for not having so many men to draw from as many of the southern colleges there is no swarm of men ready on the sidelines to take the place of any that may be tired out. This every player is used to playing four quarters and that at a very hard pace, which will make tiring them no easy thing.

Monday and Tuesday here will be a light signal drill and Wednesday the team will leave for Nashville, where they will probably have a light signal drill Wednesday evening. Some of the players are confident that a closed park can be obtained that will allow them to work in the open. Two men on the scrub team have shown up so well lately that they have been added to the first team material. These are Lamm, a backfield man who hails from Humboldt, Tenn., where he was quite a star, and Scott, a line player from Waverly, Tenn., who is being used as a sub center.

Bulldogs Play For Big Title

Record-Breaking Crowd of 47,000 Gathered at Cambridge to See Eastern Championship Clash—Harvard Rules 10-6 Favorite—The Weather Warm and Clear

(By Associated Press.) CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Nov. 22.—The football championship of the east hung on the issue in the stadium today, Harvard went into the contest a pronounced favorite in the general betting, although Yale's backers did not hesitate to accept the odds of 19 to 7 and it was a 4-6 favored against the Yale team. Football experts declared that the two teams were on such even terms that the contest was practically an even money proposition.

The field drew a record-breaking crowd of 47,000 people, a number which was not admitted to the stadium. The weather was fine from a spectator's standpoint, but the Indian summer lacked the encouraging snap which puts life and speed into football eleven. It is many years since two eleven have faced each other with such well developed kicking departments. Goals from the field were not long in coming, through the efforts of Bradley and Mahan of Harvard, and Knowles and Gurnsey of Yale.

Yale and Harvard Clash Today in Historic Annual Struggle

HANK'S THIRTY-THIRD DAY--THE CHINK BUTTS IN

--BY FARREN

THE SPORTLIGHT

BY GRANTLAND RICE

THE CURE.
Once I was an upstart bloke,
Once I thought I knew it all,
Once my bean was badly puffed,
And my pride was over tuff.

Then I started, foolish eve,
Topping out this football stuff--
Posing as a prophet with
More than ordinary bluff.

Now I know where I belong--
Where I ought to go and sit,
Humble? Bless your little heart,
Humble isn't half of it.

Our regards to Umpire Bill Klem as the bravest of the brave. When a lone umpire willing to take a chance in the middle of the Pacific ocean with thirty ball players, there's no debate left as to where the Red Badge of Courage belongs. One carless punch—a subtle, delicate splash—and a thousand wrongs would be avenged.

We offer the prediction that by the first of next May Wilbur Robinson will be regarded as one of the biggest managers in baseball.

If Robby could secure an infielder or an outfielder who can cover as much ground standing up as he does sitting down, there'd be no question as to the whereabouts of the next N. L. pennant.

The old Baltimore star has a great chance in Brooklyn, and those who know him are pulling hard for him to get by. There are too few regular guys around not to slip in a boost when one of them starts. There's to every corner of the way around.

WHERE THE FAULT RESTS

Carlisle has shown that new football, so-called, isn't to be blamed for weak attacks shown by so many of the eastern eleven. The fact that Yale and Princeton have only scored two touchdowns in four years doesn't mean that touchdowns can't be made under the rule. It merely means that Yale and Princeton haven't in four years developed anything even remotely resembling a Carlisle attack. The Indians have an attack which combines speed, power, strategy and resourcefulness. Against a big, powerful eleven they scored 5 touchdowns in one game. Yale and Princeton this season have both failed to score a touchdown in three of their starts. And the reason is fairly obvious. You can't score touchdowns with a good defense any more than you can make runs in baseball by fine fielding or good pitching.

Some day Yale or Princeton will take a chance on something beyond a plan to defend and, in addition to having a regular game, there will be a decided split in the tie now left over from 1912.

Another big booster for the Carlisle system is Charley Atherton, the old Penn. state fullback. He says the Indians have an attack at least two touchdowns stronger than any other eleven in the East.

SMITH VS. LANGFORD

Our old Heidelberg and Oxford chum, Gunboat Smith, has dragged one section of the White Hope contingent forward by his margin over Sam Langford, but there is still a feeling that perhaps the Smoke was only angling for another match.

Langford has undoubtedly gone back, and as Johnson has slipped back even farther, the heavyweight brigade is now without a real master for the first time in many years. When Sullivan passed, Corbett was waiting. Fitzsimmons and Corbett followed. Johnson was picked up where Jeffries left off, and from Sullivan to Johnson there was talent enough to spare. But now from the entire assignment, white, black, brown, green or yellow, there isn't a big league left in the lot.

But this slump is only a temporary affair. Within the next year or so they'll be booming an entry beyond "Jim Jeffries at his best." But up to date we haven't a keen enough vision to lamp him under fire from among those now exchanging champagne in the W. H. bridge.

Football, baseball, tennis, golf, etc., have all maintained their list of stars year after year. The lightweight section of boxing has also held its standard. It's only in the heavyweight coral that the cave-in has been marked and the array of cheese so widely extant.

HARVARD DUE

Up through 1912 Yale has achieved twenty-two victories against Harvard's six. Which margin indicates that it is about time Harvard was doing up the gap. Which set of figures also make Yale's slump all the more notable. Up through 1910 Yale had won twenty-two out of twenty-seven Harvard games. And since 1910 Yale hasn't scored upon the crimson in any sort of fashion.

A Blue follower charges us with unfairness in our contention that Yale hasn't developed any attack. Could there be any terrific kick to an attack unable to score a touchdown in three games from an incomplete schedule where two of the three contests were against minor rivals?

Harvard, on the other wing, has failed to score a touchdown in but one contest, and that contest was staged upon the surface of a billowy lake where any sort of offense was practically useless. The true test of Harvard's offense will be shown upon a dry field against the Blue defense, for Yale has a team now in the field that will take a world of pounding before its goal is crossed.

It seems to us that we were hurried from the maestro of a world series into this football muss about a fortnight ago. And here the curtain is flitting over the finish of the closing act. One of the main beauties of football is that you don't have two months of it left—mostly doubleheaders—after the championship race has been packed away beyond all doubt.

Louisiana Championship

(By Associated Press.)
BATON ROUGE, La., Nov. 22.—The championship of Louisiana is the stake in the football game here this afternoon between Tulane and Louisiana State university. L. S. U. won the title over Tulane in 1911 and 1912. The team arrived here this morning after rigorous training in New Orleans. For men they are outwitted by the Thiers. The local players will wear uniforms that they may be more easily identified, according to an announcement made by Physical Director Stroud.

Bayless Best Coast Hitter

Former Cracker Outfielder Led League With Average of .324 in 195 Games

Dick Bayless, formerly a member of the Cracker and Gulf teams, led the Coast hitters this season with a percentage of .324, going through 195 games. It will be recalled that Bayless was a right fielder for the Atlanta Braves in 1910 until a minor difficulty arose, when he was traded to Mobile for Davey Callahan. Dick stuck with Mobile the rest of that season and 1911. In 1912 he was traded to Max Baer's Venice club of the Pacific Coast league.

Hogan's club, by the way, presents quite an array of Southern league talent, most of whom are old-timers. Rowdy Elliott, scrappy little catcher of the Vols in 1911 and 1912, caught 145 games for the Venice club. Rowdy hit the ball around pretty lively, at the rate of .273. Jack Tommenan, ex-Turkey, Yankee, American association player, and also a Vol, was Rowdy's understudy during part of the season. Cecil Ferguson, also an ex-Turkey, was one of Venice's hurlers, but has a poor record. Jimmy Johnson, the Mercury footed former Boston bandle making a world's record for base stealing, which has been duplicated in the daily press, was one of the eight coast regular players in these above .200. Johnson was in Princeton, but goes to the Cubs for a 1914 tryout.

First Grid Team Had 25 Players

American intercollegiate football had its beginning November 6, 1869, when Rutgers defeated Nassau hall, now Princeton university, six goals to four. A week later Nassau turned the tables, winning eight goals to nothing.

This was the first game with an American code. In some games English rules prevailed, while in others there were no rules at all. The sole object being to get the ball between the goal posts.

Under the pioneer American college code each team had twenty-five players. Other rules were:

1. There must be four judges and two referees.

2. The team winning the first toss is to be the choice of position, while the winner of the second toss has the first kick-off.

3. There must be no throwing or running with the ball, and such constitutes a foul, when the ball must be thrown perpendicularly in the air by the guilty team.

4. There must be no holding of the ball.

5. When a ball passes beyond the limit of the field by the side of the goal it shall be kicked on from the boundary by the side having that goal.

6. When the ball passes beyond the limit at the side of the field it shall be kicked on horizontally to the boundary by the side which kicked it out.

7. There shall be no holding or tripping of players.

Big X-Country Race Saturday

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Long distance runners from fourteen colleges and universities will start in the sixth annual cross country championship race of the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletics of America, to be held on the Van Cortlandt course this afternoon.

The course is about six miles in length. Preliminary events have not served this fall the usual purpose of making any one or two teams stand out prominently as likely winners and the title appears to be very much in doubt.

Yale Rowers Consider Change in Coaching

(By Associated Press.)
NEW HAVEN, Nov. 22.—Captain T. B. Denango, of the Yale crew, returned from New York last night, where he had held an all-day conference with the Yale rowing committee concerning the question of changing the coaching method. No final decision was reached. Another conference will be held next week. It was generally believed at Yale that English coaching methods will not be retained.

Discuss Rules Of Basketball

(By Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Nov. 22.—Interpretation meetings of the collegiate basketball rules committee will be held in this city November 24, in Chicago November 25-26 and in other cities at about the same time. It was announced last night.

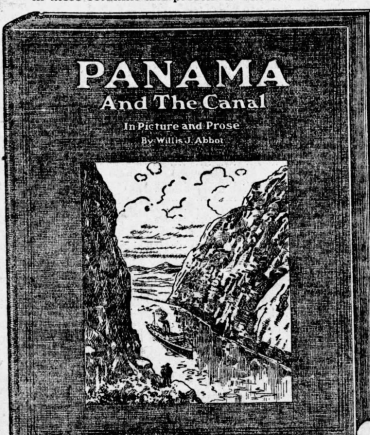

McGugin Eases Up On Vandy Practice

(By Associated Press.)
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Nov. 22.—For fear of Vanderbilt's football squad becoming overtrained before the Thanksgiving game with Sewanee, Coach McGugin has eased up hard practice and is confining himself with working out secret plays. The last scrimmage was Wednesday and there will be no more till Monday or Tuesday. McGugin is working mainly on the line. Neither Vanderbilt nor Sewanee plays tomorrow.

Delaware, Virginia and North Carolina will be present. Dr. James Nolen, a member of the rules committee, will preside at a meeting November 24 at Lawrence, Kan.
